Bitter Treatment

Sandy Goldbeck-Wood

It was the area between the midlines of the two temporal lobes, and back for eight to nine centimetres – the hippocampus, the parahippocampal gyrus, the entorhinal and perirhinal cortices, the amygdala –

The young man was awake on the table the whole time, apparently as Dr Scoville inserted a silver straw and sucked out nearly the entire greyish-pink mass including his memory, like finest mate amargo through a bombilla.
